

Managed Mobility Services (MMS)

Hyperion makes it easier for customers to deploy and maintain mobile devices for their employees by handling all the labor-intensive and complex tasks associated with a mobility services program. This includes:

- Procuring and financing devices
- Advanced staging and device management services
- Intricate kitting and logistics needs
- Deployment and installation support
- Managing device lifecycle and repair services
- Wireless technical support including Mobile Device Management (MDM) administration

By offloading these tasks, companies can avoid the need to invest in and maintain their own mobility support infrastructure. This can save significant time, money, and resources that can be better spent on core business operations.
